Knowing the map of real estate law enables us to plot the most effective paths for our clients.

SINCE OPENING ITS DOORS THREE DECADES ago, Rosenberg & Estis has been at the forefront of real estate law in New York. The attorneys possess an extraordinary understanding of the New York City real estate world and the unparalleled ability to navigate through the intricacies of the judicial system. Their in-depth knowledge, combined with sound business sense, enables them to craft creative solutions to complex and difficult situations.

Rosenberg & Estis has distinguished itself by its focus on the business of real estate law, through its expert counsel in litigation, transactions, administrative matters, appeals, insurance and environmental issues. Its client base is as diverse as the city itself—ranging from New York's largest real estate owners and developers to small owners, co-op and condo boards and tenants. It regularly publishes a real estate column for the New York Law Journal and is the "go-to" real estate firm for other attorneys.

Warren A. Estis and Luise A. Barrack head the Litigation Departments, where they lead a seasoned team of attorneys who produce exceptional and practical results, in and out of court. Gary M. Rosenberg heads the Transactional Department, in which Dennis I. Hellman and Robert M. Kessler are partners, providing the firm's clients with sophisticated and unparalleled counsel in areas such as sales and acquisitions, strategic planning and financing.
